sentence and after a jury had found them guilty of the offences with which they stand charged. The Queen's writs cannot issue. The country has been for months in a state ofterror. It has been tyrannised over by 'an unauthorised conspiracy.' What, by the way, is an authorised conspiracy? These are the results of an agitation which has been sedulously carried on for months, &c. It may be so, but what right has the Chief Justice to assume that untried men are responsible for these things? That he does assume it is plain enough, for he concludes his philippic rather than judgment by exclaiming—'Let it be tried once and for all, whether is is an innocent or a criminal act to incite the tenants of the country to violate their contracts, to impede the process of the law in the manner in which we see it has been impeded, and the manner in which the law has been violated, and probably will be violated.' We venture to say that the case to be tried is one not so much of law as of fact. Few doubt that it is unlawful to do what the Chief Justice says has been done. The question at the trial will be—Have the traversers been guilty of the acts with which they have been charged? but the question before the Chief Justice on Saturday was simply and solely which of two writs was to be attended to first—that which summoned certain persons to appear before the Queen's Bench, or that which summoned them to Westminster. We deplore the effect the language we have cited will have upon Irish opinion. The law of conspiracy is justly looked upon with disfavor: it has ceased to be resorted to in this country, and it is much to be regretted that Mr. Parnell is to be tried under it. But if it must be so, at least his judges should play a neutral part, and give no cause for bitter complaint that the fair trial of a political prisoner is not to be looked for in the Dublin Courts. Whatever may have been the motives of Chief Justice May, it is not at all unlikely that his observations on the bench will evoke sympathy for the traversers.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The first news in town yesterday was from the West Coast. The great battle before Lima is hourly expected. There has been another skirmish; Peruvians beaten, and a Colonel of Hussars and several troopers captured. On the other hand a Chilian Colonel was killed. The Peruvians have advanced their positions from Chorillos to Monterico. The excitement in Chile is said to be indescribable, and the news at hand is, of course, Chilian.

The Clerk of the Weather must be a Red Republican; he has behaved in a most democratic manner since the young Princes landed' spoiling sport, although he couldn't spoil the lunch, at the cricket match on Saturday, and sending down the buckets again yesterday, to make the Royal visit to Mr Shennan's estancia as disagreeable as possible. Mr Clerk, we're ashamed of you.

There can be no doubt as to the ball at the Opera House to-night being by far the grandest ever given in this city. Amongst the decorations is a mirror weighing two tons The ladies' room is a 'bijou,' all blue, and decorated with exquisite taste, and the show of plants and flowers is wonderful. The Committee were at work yesterday from dawn till midnight, with their coats' and occasionally their waistcoats, off. Few have any idea of the immense labour involved in getting up an entertainment of this kind; nothing comes near it except private theatricals, and nothing surpasses it except editing a news paper. The collecting members of the Committee and the British community have both done their duty so well that, we understand, the receipts already already exceed the guarantee fund by a good amount Everything augurs a brilliant success. It was quite sufficient to peep into the Ball Committee Room, 79 Calle Maypu, at any hour yesterday, and see some of the first of our city men, with coats off, enveloped in stationery, letters, cards, lists, &c., to perceive that victory was organized, and arrangements, even to the minutest, completed to perfection. It is quite possible that the Committee men in London who gave last year the great bachelors' ball at Kensington House had just as much to do as our friends here: but we advert to the matter merely to remind the public how much it owes to the untiring exertions of the gentlemen who form the Committee. As there was some desire to know about [illegible]d boxes for ladies in mourning, we learn that no reserve can be made. Every lady attending must be in ball dress, and none but those invited can take seats in any box in the house. The Committee request us to state that it will be absolutely necessary to present the card of invitation at the door.

A private joint stock company has undertaken to drain Laguna Iberia in Corrientes, in return for 400 leagues of prime land in Upper Misiones. A good bargain for the company, if they make proper use of the land,

The Ball Committee ask us to remind all friends with 'quintas' that flowers for the adornment of the Opera House to-night will be accepted as a great favour.

On Saturday the Rev. Mr Gormly sang his first Mass at the Merced; owing to the great rain few friends could attend, and the Dean did not preach.

We beg to salute cordially Chevalier Oldham, the talented Manager of the River Plate Telegraph Company, who has retnrned from England in the R.M.S. Tamar.

Earl Clanwilliam, owing to the weather and fearing that his men could not return by dinner time, notified the Rev. Mr Vaughan that the men could not go ashore on Sunday to attend Mass at the Matriz. Dean Monsignor Dillon, who was about to sail in the Jupiter on Saturday, did not go down to Montevideo as he intended.

Earl Clanwilliam, we hear, cannot come up, but a large number of his officers have received leave. Dr Turnbull, who is physician in attendance on the Princes, is an old friend, having been out here some years ago in the Cracker. We salute him on his return to the Plate, and hope that he will recommend the Princes plenty of outdoor exercise, and to purchase a large estancia, with cows, horses and sheep.

There was an amusing chase the other day on the beach, the pursued being a young 'middy' who had deserted from his ship, the Pilcomayo, at Campana, and the pursuer a porter from the Government House, who had been ordered to accompany him to Campana and see that he rejoined his vessel there. The 'reefer' seized an opportunity to take to his heels, and the 'portero,' although near the meridian of life, darted after him like a greyhound. The young sailor was gaining rapidly when he looked astern to see how the porter was faring. Unhappy thought! he came end on against a post with such violence that he rolled into the middle of Paseo Julio, and the porter hauled alongside and captured him before he could say Jack Robinson 'o cosa parecida.'

We give the latest news from Europe in another column. Ireland is still the great topic. Mr Parnell declares that he and his Land Leaguers will take about six years to finish the work they have in hands. There was considerable excitement at Chief Justice May going out of his way at some preliminary stage of the State trials to make some severe remarks about the traversers. The Chief Justice says that Mr Parnell and his friends are in a more serious position than they imagine. The London papers say that, whether they are or not, it is no business of his to say so, or prejudge the case, before it goes to the jury.

Don Enrique O'Gorman has presented to the Government his resignation as Governor of the Penitentiary, but it is generally believed that it will not be accepted.

The Princes, after their arrival on Friday breakfasted at Belgrano with Sir Horace Rumbold, came into town at 3 o'clock, passed a pleasant hour in the Museum with Dr Burmeister, and then strolled through Calles Florida and Rivadavia, winding up at the Confiteria del Gas. Later on they visited President Roca at his quinta and drove back to Belgrano for dinner. On Saturday they visited the Cricket field at Palermo for half an hour, What they did on Sunday we dont know, Yesterday was so extremely wet that it was generally remarked that the 'Queen's weather' does not follow her grandsons round the globe. The Admiral has sent word to the officers of the Flying Squadron now here on leave, that, if they have not rejoined their ships on or before the morning of the 8th inst, he will sail without them.

A Connecticut man, who had not led the most exemplary of lives, having been given over by the doctors, begged an intimate friend to send for whoever he thought that he (the patient) ought to see under the solemn circumstances. The friend immediately dispatched a messenger for the nearest fire insurance agent.

We feel much pleasure in saluting Dr Fleury and Surgeon Dentist Stokes, of Montevideo, who have come up for a few days. We are glad to see them both in excellent health. Dr F. showed us the fork on which John Chambers breakfasted some months ago, and gave our talented friend an apportunity of performing successfully one of the most wonderful operations in the annals of modern surgery.

Woman is truly said to be an exiquia. A case is reported from Entre Rios where a woman clove in her lover's head with a hatchet while he slept, but did not quite kill him, and she now sits night and day by his bedside trying to save him from the grave.

The rain has done considerable damage in the wheat colonies in Santa Fe. Nevertheless the price is falling, ten Bolivian dollars being now the highest figure.

The only news in the Mercedes papers is that there has been so much munching and 'musica' going on there in the banquet and ball line that the Municipality have been unable to get up a quorum for more than a week past.

The Rosario papers report [illegible]away accident, in which a carriage full of people went slap-bank o[illegible] the embankment: the driver ha[illegible] his head, a leg and an arm broke[illegible] and his liver nearly shaken out, a[illegible] will have to wear a Holman [illegible] for the rest of his life. One l[illegible] was killed and the carriage [illegible] smashed to bits; but, wond[illegible] relate, the occupants esca[illegible] hurt.

The British Hospital retu[illegible] December show 28 patients o[illegible] 35 entered, 30 cured, 3 de[illegible] 30 to begin this year with.

Now and then our Rosari[illegible] leagues enjoy the pleasure of an [illegible]tory. One of them announces that the Emperor and Empress o[illegible] Brazil are coming to the Buenos Aires International Exhibition. No doubt their Imperial Majesties will do us that honour, but first let us get our Exhibition. Some people express uncomfortable doubts as to its coming off this year.

A Rio colleague speaks as follows of the latest piece of dance music published there:—"The late polka bears the pleasing title 'Escencialmente Agricola.' In our opinion the new title will suit the genus as well as the individual there seems to be an agricultural flavor about the whole lot of them."

The South Pole committee met on Thursday night in Dr Zeballos's rooms; 23 members were present and much more interest was evident in the members. The various committees had done little or nothing during the last week, owing to absence of members or the impossibility of moving about these last hot days. Dr Tamini moved that Dean Dillon should be named member of the committee and a report published on the aims and proceedings of the Buenos Aires committee of the South Pole; further he pointed out the advantages of requesting the editors of papers to write on the Polar expedition and then reproduce the articles in a neat pamphlet. These motions were carried unanimously and a vote of thanks is due to him for his exactions. Dr Zeballos shortly hinted at Mr Ovetto's project, which will be presented at next session. Dr Cittadini, Dr Tamini, and two other gentlemen were commissioned to organize the impending conferences, whilst Dr Jorge hit the nail on the head by proposing a kind of lottery, which will no doubt help the works of the committee. There is gradually more interest taken in the expedition and it would be much to be desired if our readers could display same.

We commend the following news, which we received by the mail, to our excellent Lord Mayor, Dn. Torquato Alvear. Mansion House dinners should be initiated in B. Aires, We positively forget the taste of turtle fat, it is so woefully long since we tasted the genuine article:—'Accordingly to a city contemporary, the late Lord Mayor (Alderman Sir F. Truscott) during his year of office entertained not fewer than twelve thousand visitors at various banquets, dejeuners, etc., while more than five thousand other distinguished persons partook of his hospitality at reunions, conversations, and the like.
